

Factors that Bias a Comparison between MTF and Civilian Medical Appointment Costs

By David M. Berthe

Biblioscholar Okt 2012, 2012. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 246x189x2 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - In an attempt to arrest the soaring cost of healthcare, Military Health System (MHS) leaders often turn to comparisons with civilian healthcare organizations to find best practices and standards of performance that should be emulated in the military. While we share much in common, there are subtle but distinct differences in our organizations, differences we would ignore to our peril. The differences stem from our mission to serve our fellow soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines whenever duty calls. While civilian organizations may also claim a dual mission of financial solvency/profit and enhancing the health of their community, the adage 'no margin, no mission' holds firm. In the MHS, our dual mission is different. It involves our wartime mission of preparing our troops and ourselves for war as well as treating our wounded warriors during war. Our other mission is that of providing the peacetime healthcare benefit to all Tricare-eligible beneficiaries. While the second part of our mission parallels the civilian healthcare sector and presents comparative opportunities, the military mission and organization are unique and pervades what we do....

READ ONLINE
[ 9.2 MB ]

Reviews

This publication is definitely worth buying. It can be loaded with wisdom and knowledge I am easily could possibly get a satisfaction of looking at a composed publication.

-- Rhiannon Steuber

Very helpful to all type of individuals. It really is rally interesting throgh looking at time. Its been designed in an extremely basic way which is just soon after i finished reading this pdf through which basically modified me, change the way i believe.

-- Tyshawn Brekke