That bonds to the amount of $2,000,000.00 be issued to cover the cost of the above work, with the exception noted above. 6th. That the money taken from municipal revenue to build and equip North Market Street Dock-First Section, be refunded out of this bond issue. Conclusion Industrial prosperity is vital to the welfare of a great city. The successful development of all industrial property and the maximum of service cannot be provided by private enterprises. The city should aid its own industries by facilitating the handling of freight to all avenues of transportation and by reducing switching charges to a minimum. This is impossible where the railroads and terminals are planned wholly for the advancement of private interests. St. Louis should provide rail connections between all large industrial areas, the Municipal Bridge and all large railroads entering the city, with suitable yards and terminals. St. Louis should also encourage the advancement of river traffic by construction of terminals, properly equipped, and with connections between all railroads and the city's system of connecting railroad lines. HE larger a city grows the more essential a comprehensive city plan becomes. Traffic problems, the congestion of population, the necessity for an intensive use of land, the magnitude of the property values affected, make the control of building development more and more essential to the health, comfort and welfare of the city and its inhabitants. Every city becomes divided into more or less clearly defined districts of...
